

Second Language Study

Karla Lowrey

Do you think we should start teaching a second language to younger students? I believe that if you teach a child a second language in elementary school, it is easier for the student to learn and to remember, than to wait until high school. I, myself, know this is true, because my mother started teaching me Spanish when I was only two years old!

Schools that have been trying to get this in their school system, have surveyed the students' parents who pay the taxes.

Seventy-four percent out of one hundred seventy-two supported adding the language class, but seventy percent wouldn't support the increase in the school budget. Did you know that studies also show that students who have learned a second language get a higher score on the SAT test, and have a higher graduation rate?

In my opinion, children with a second language would have more options finding a better career. I hope parents will promote this in our schools!
